As a fair illustration of the many As a fair illustration of the many senseless and trivial cases that come up in the Police Court almost daily, may be mentioned the following: Pat Malohey, of No. 9 Race street, a stalwart man, has Annie Powell, his next door heighbor, arrested, the affidavit stating that Mrs. Powell did "willfully and maliciously assault him with intent to wound." The valiant Maloney took the stand and did solemnly swear that Annie Powell "struck me three times with lukewarm water from a basin; but, Your Honor, it would o' been all the same, had it been bilin' hot, so it would." Case dismissed. would." Case dismissed.

FRANK MILLER is a tramp printer. He's been spacing railroad ties for the last six months in different directions, and struck this village about Christmas. Being gaunt and hungry he made out an order admitting him to the Christmas dinner served at the Eim-street Hotel, and placed the name of R. M. Bishon, ir. to said order. Being readily. Hotel, and placed the name of R. M. Bishop, jr., to said order. Being readily admitted, as he came so well recommended, he improved the time by running up a board bill there. On a hearing of the case this morning he acknowledged that the order was a forgery, but denied that he was the forger. The charge being changed to obtaining goods by false pretense he was sent to the Work-house for 30 days and fined $50.

EXPOSURE to drafts when heated, and sudden changes in the temperature of the atmosphere, are prolific sources of severe Colds, from which many cases of Inflammation of the Lungs, Pleurisy, Asthma and other Pulmonary Affections are developed. ### An Unhealthy Board.

The usual semi-monthly meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday evening, but nothing occurred of an exciting nature, save a little jamboree made by Dr. Quinn upon a Commercial reporter, whom he accused of giving a one-sided report of a previous meeting. No blood shed.

Dr. Quinn, after setting down on that pencii snover, next addressed himself to the task of telling Mr. Fratz and Dr. Bramble what his opinion of them was, and boldly charged them with visiting and boldly charged them with visiting beer saloons and playing cards with sanitary policemen and market masters. Dr. Bramble here got in a word to the effect that Mr. Ebersole, Milk Inspector, had furnished this Interesting information to Dr. Quinn. Ebersole denied it. Dr. Bramble plainly intimated to Ebersole that he was a liar, with numerous dashes. At this Ebersole pawed in the neighborhood of his pistol pocket, and the excited Bramble did the same. Tableaux. ### Wilkes' Spirit of the Times.

Of all the journals, weekly or monthly, devoted to the Turt, Field Sports, Stage, and kindred matters, this well-known and ever-popular Wilkes' Spirit Is, par and ever-popular wilkes' spirit is, par excellence, the best ever published this side the Atlantic. A perusal of the Christmas number has afforded us unusual pleasure. It comprises thirty-six pages, and is a fair sample of what its subscribers may expect from it for the coming year. It is handsomely illustrated, and gives an exact likeness of some ten or twelve celebrated American trotters and racers, which all equine adtrotters and racers, which all equine ad-mirers and fanciers will appreciate. The several departments treating of

The several departments treating of breeding, rearing and training horses, the American turf, the veterinary art, chess, billiards, music and the drama, are sil ably conducted, and the columns are filled with contributions from a corps of elegant and experienced writers of those subjects. Col. Forney's letters from Londou, in which he gives a graphic account of the out-door sports of the English and other European nations will prove a source of instruction and entertainment for all classes of readers; and a series of papers entitled "Amateurs and Actors Thirty Years Ago," will interest lovers of the drama.

The "Answers to Correspondents,"

The "Answers to Correspondents," "Spirit of the Turf," and "Movements of Actors," are permanent and special features. There are also several columns pertaining to work and the farm; and the literary miscellany, besides, is of a varied and interesting character. The paper has enjoyed brilliant and unvarying success throughout its long existence, and the publishers seem determined that it shall in future be even more deserving of its immense popularmore deserving of its immense popular-ity. It contains more matter, in the course of the year, than any of the largest magazines, and certainly in its sphere it is without a rival.

A Virginia, Nev., husband went to the depot the other day to receive his wise, whom he had not seen for two years. When the train came in he sprang forward to assist her from the car, and had managed to say: "My dear—," when she "put hi" to the following effect: "How is Mrs. Smith? Have you seen Tom? What a dreadful journey I've had. Why don't you take your pants out of your boots? You must positively have that hair of yours cut right away. You're smoking again, I see. Have you got nice rooms? I hope you haven't been drinking, dearest. Oh, dear me, how muddy it is!" denot the other day to receive his wite.

P. M.

John Adams, in his letter to his wife, written immediately after the Declaration of Independence was signed, predicted that each annual recurrence of it would be celebrated by Firing of Salutes, by the Ringing of Bells, the Building of Bonfires, and all other usual modes of expressing pub-

asual modes of expressing public rejoicing, from one end of the Continent to the other.

In the spirit of this "Colossus" of independence, as he was termed by Thomas Jendreson, the beginning of a new century, which has witnessed such development and such increase of political power, which has witnessed the Union preserved and the liberties of the people maintained, may well clicit a manifestation of a peculiarly enthusiastic character. It would seem to be almost a work of supercrogation to suggest to the descendants of the men of 1776, and those who since arriving to our shores were made partners is the
